What happens after the Aladdin and Jasmine meet?

At the end of Aladdin, Jasmin and Aladdin got together. I will be making up what happened after that.

After the movie, Aladdin and Jasmine got married. It was a happy marriage. They got their house, then had one kid. They named their daughter Diamond. She had a friend named Giovanni. He was a boy. They adventured around their village. They were the two smartest kids in their school. Giovanni and Diamond sat on the roof of Diamond's house. They were talking what they would do the next day. They both secretly liked each other. A few days later, they were celebrating Diamond's birthday. She would be 11 years old. Giovanni was also 11 years old. Giovanni was very good at magic. He made a bunny come out of nowhere. He gave it to Diamond. She named it Carl. Aladdin was holding his monkey, Abu, on his shoulder. Their tiger, Rajah, was sleeping in a corner. This was their third pet. Jasmine fed Carl some water.

They started eating cake. Jasmine and Aladdin were talking to Giovanni's parents. Giovanni's little brother, Percival, was riding Rajah. Percival was five years old. 15 years later, Diamond and Giovanni get married. Carl was now an older bunny. Percival was Giovanni's best man. Percival was holding Carl. Percival was now 20 years old. Giovanni was 26, and Diamond was 25 years old. Giovanni was three months older than Diamond. They were now King and Queen. They had a son named Isaac, and a daughter named Allegra.

Isaac and Allegra were like their parents. Kind, helpful, adventurous, and smart.

Isaac was friends with a boy named Felix. Allegra was friends with a girl named Gabriella. Felix was always lucky. Isaac and Felix practiced magic tricks. Their life was perfect.

The End.
